Practical Ideas and Strategies

Some students struggle with reading and begin to fall behind to the point of losing confidence in their ability to ever learn to read. We don't want our students who struggle to lose hope, but you may not have the assessments and tools to accurately identify their reading deficits and provide intentional instruction to target the specific deficits. What are proven ways to reduce the reading gap that keeps many of our students from becoming strong, proficient readers? This two-day training is designed to give you the tools and strategies to address the needs of these specific students who struggle the most with reading.

To help you train your teachers to use high-yield reading strategies to accelerate struggling readers in their decoding, fluency, comprehension, and vocabulary, popular presenter and reading coach, Jaime Bailey, has developed a fast-paced, practical, train-the-trainer opportunity you won't want to miss.

This two-day train-the-trainer institute focuses on how to identify the reading gaps of your struggling students and gain a toolkit of reading strategies to address those gaps. You will learn to better analyze the reading deficits of struggling readers and discover dozens of free resources to create a wealth of strategies for readers at different levels. Participants who attend will gain and build expertise to interpret reading assessments and learn how to accurately identify reading needs and strategies to address them. Participants will also receive extensive resources to train others in these highly effective strategies to build a successful reading program in their school(s) and districts.

A Practical, Two-Day Train-the-Trainer Program to Train Your Teachers to Identify and Address the Reading Gaps of Struggling Readers

Send one or more staff members or a team to this training program and they will return to your school(s) with professional development strategies and resources to support and train your teachers to better facilitate high-quality reading instruction focusing on closing achievement gaps. Participants will learn:

- Ready-to-use strategies to support your staff as they analyze the reading gaps of struggling readers
- Practical strategies for strengthening reading fluency, vocabulary, comprehension, and decoding
- Dozens of free resources – videos, lessons, reading resources – to create a diverse wealth of instructional resources for readers at various levels
- Practical, formative assessment ideas that work to monitor reading progress and support progress monitoring
- Tips, shortcuts and ways to better use technology to support on-site job-embedded professional learning

This Two-Day Train-the-Trainer Program is Cost-Effective

If you are interested in providing high-quality training in assessing and addressing the skill deficits of struggling readers to your teachers, school(s) or district this is the perfect opportunity. Send one teacher or a team and they will leave with an extensive resource training handbook filled with the tools needed for their own training, along with access to a companion web-based link filled with additional resources and a PowerPoint template to use and adapt to meet the needs of your own training. The focus of the two-day training will be on implementing the crucial components necessary to identify and target the reading gaps your most struggling students need to become more proficient readers.

Dear Colleague:

Join me for a unique, two-day train-the-trainer institute focusing on the best strategies to identify reading problems and target your instruction to close achievement gaps. Whether you work as an instructional coach, general education or special education classroom teacher, Title I staff member, or as a reading specialist, I know you will discover a blend of valuable tools and practical strategies to use with struggling readers as well as tips and tricks for training your colleagues.

During this practical, two-day train-the-trainer institute, I will share specific and intentional practices and resources that you can begin to use immediately. You will receive dozens of free resources for supporting teachers who work with struggling readers. All strategies will focus on targeting reading instruction to meet the needs of struggling readers. I will also model and share with you tricks and tips for providing professional development for adult learners.

I look forward to meeting you at the institute. This will be an active, fast-paced two-day event, filled with activities, application as well as the opportunity to transfer and personalize training tips to make them your own. No matter what your current position, you will leave with a full supply of ideas and tools to use back in your building as you support others who work with struggling readers.

Sincerely,

Jaime Bailey

P.S. You will also receive an extensive resource handbook, access to a companion web-based link filled with more resources and tools for easy access when you return, and a PowerPoint template you can adapt and use in your training back at your schools.

“...you will discover a blend of valuable tools and practical strategies to use with struggling readers as well as tips and tricks for training your colleagues.”
